This company is highly recommended by bankers of Louisville, who say it is splendidly officered and conservatively managed. Its rapid growth in the last few years shows the great confidence that is reposed in it. The plan of this company differs from other building and loan institutions in prepared to furnish that it has a capital stock, which stands as guarantee for the maturity of the preferred stock in seven years. For those who wish to lay up something gradually for a rainy day or those who have money to invest in the paid up stock, which bears 8 per cent. payable semi-annually, this company offers peculiar advantages and it will pay you to investigate.

COLORED BAPTIZING .- More than 1,000 people saw Rev. G. W. Bolling wash the sins from 21 persons in Logan's Creek Sunday. The point selected was near Rowland, where the railroad and pike bridges span the stream and both structures, as well as all region round about, were covered with people, white and black. Before administering the ordinance, Mr. Bolling addressed the large crowd, after some effort in quieting it. He settled the question as to the proper mode of baptism, which he said had been agitating the minds of people for ages, by stating that he was about to perform it stating that he was about to perform it bestowed.

STORIES OF THE DAY.

prous Account of a Whale Soon to Be Exhibited In New York.

Cetaceum, late of the Whales' School of Oratory and Acting, arrived in New York the other day. He didn't look hale or rosy or even respectable. He is going to get full of barrels, and in that beastly condition a shrewd Yankee tugboat agent will make a show of him.

Cetaceum is hardly a specialist in feats of strength. He is getting stronger, though. As he lies swinging back and forward with the tide out near Bedloe's island the masters of passing vessels note his increasing strength. He is rather unevenly developed. At least the captains who go to windward seem to think he is much stronger than do those on the lee side.

Cetaceum left his school off Chatham, Mass., and died. He rolled over on his back and drifted. A shark came along and ripped off several square feet of his waistcoat and was leisurely chewing it when the tug Taurus hove in sight and chased the evil fish away.

The whale was drifting in shore when the Taurus saved him from being hopelessly stranded. He passed a line around the monster and tied it. He was so strong even in death that some of the crew did not care to go near him.

All sorts of craft saluted the procession. Cetaceum passed Hunter's point unheeded. His presence was perceptible when he got farther down stream, and he had not been brought to rest for half an hour before the denizens of Liberty and Ellis islands knew that something new had come into their lives.

Cetaceum, as he lay on his back astern of the Mercedita, looked like a big stripped bedtick or an overturned clinker boat. From head to tail his white underbody was marked by longitudinal corrugations. He looked something like a washboard.

If he had a trunk full of press notices, he could not have been more puffed up. He was swollen to one-third more than his normal size. "Man," as Captain O'Brien remarked, "a Yarmouth bloater is not in the same class."

A very large sand scow will be pushed into a dry dock and sunk. The whale will be slid upon it, the water will be drawn off, and Cetaceum will be raised high and dry.

On board the scow Professor Smith and his assistants will put Cetaceum in condition and fill him up with barrels of disinfectants. Professor Smith is sure that Cetaceum will then give a performance which will be entirely unobjectionable even to the most refined and discriminating.

The whale will then be towed to an East river pier, where a tent will be built around him.

Several bold men with large feet walked over the whale and tried to measure him. It is estimated that he is about 73 feet long.—New York Herald. Not Looking For Him.

"Does William Mixley live here?" I "Yes," she replied. "What do you want uv him?" "Hasn't he a walnut tree for sale?"

"Yes, 'n that's about all he's got." "Is he at home?" "No."

"When are you looking for him?"
"I ain't lookin fer him." "He hasn't left the country, has he?

"Not as I know uv." "Where is he?" "He's gone down to papa's."

"Then of course you're looking for him back. Old man Guilion is your father, isn't he, and he only lives a mile or so down the road?"

"Yes, but I ain't lookin for him back." "Why not?" And by this time I had begun to think the woman was a little "Caze he's gone down to see pap

To Commemorate Her Victories Japan is to have its own Eiffel tower.

Free Press.

The Eastern World, published at Yokohama, announces that a number of Japanese patriots in Tokyo have conceived the idea of so commemorating their victories. The tower will be 1,000 feet high, and the lowest story is to contain an exhibition of national industries, while the highest will be a Walhalla, devoted to the statues of Japanese patriots who have died for their country. The cost is to be $350,000, and European contractors are invited to send estimates. -New Orleans Times-Democrat.

American Boots In England.

Exporting American boots to England is an achievement to be proud of. But it is an accomplished fact. The labor cost in American boots is less than in Eugland, though the per diem earnings of the American workman are larger than those of his English brother. The American superiority in bootmaking is only the forerunner of much more that is coming.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The father of a young woman who died recently in Brockenhurst, England, kept her body in a lead coffin in his sitting room for several days, refusing to have the girl buried, so great was his affection for her. The authorities were finally obliged to interfere. - New York some penalty were attached men could Evening Sun.

WOMAN'S WORLD IN PARAGRAPHS.

How Some Capable Women Might Make a Good Living. Every day a neat looking, polite man comes into our newspaper office. . He parries a number of small white boxes. He steps up to us and asks courteously if we want to buy a lunch today. The box contains a sandwich, an orange, a slice of cake and a boiled egg. The price of it all is 10 cents. A neatly folded paper napkin is on top of the food. The fare is varied from time to time. The neat looking man gave me the card of his establishment yesterday. It is a lunchroom and bakery. The or-dinary meats, soups, vegetables and desserts that business people usually take in the middle of the day are on the bill of fare. Besides sending out the clean and appetizing lunches daily the proprietor of the place conducts the eating house and bakery.

The name of the proprietor printed on the card was, I was delighted to see, a woman's. A shrewd, hustling woman originated the idea and carries on the business. Undoubtedly lunches taken around among business offices every day will be a go, perhaps not at first, but in time. The fiendish lunch counters and noonday feeding places where refined business men and women must mix with people to whom in same cases pigs could read a lesson in manners will very quickly get the go-by when a neat, aesthetic, dainty luncheon can be brought to them at their own desks. At the restaurants, which are all the ordinary working man or woman can afford to patronize, there are awful mysteries behind the scenes that nobody who ever hopes to enjoy food again dare penetrate. Slovenly service, not overclean or overpolite waiters and unutterable cookery are what business people put up with because they can do no better. Now in nearly every city in the Union an enterprising, economical woman, who was a skilled cook, could inaugurate such a system as the proprietor of the restaurant I speak of has done. A neat, cheap, appetizing lunch brought to them in the middle of the day would be a boon to business men and women everywhere. Why cannot women go into the business of supplying it? This would pay better than being a stenographer or giving music lessons or writing for newspapers.

More women would make fortunes if they would go into business for themselves, instead of hanging back and waiting for somebody else to employ

How many wives are aware that they do not even own the clothes upon their backs in any except two or three states of this Union? A lady in Connecticut bought some new dresses lately. She liked them very much, but when her lord and master came home he inspected the gowns and decided that they were not right. They were too gay for his wife, he said, which was undoubtedly A woman was standing in the front | true, for the wife of a man like that door of the West Virginia cabin when ought to wear sackcloth and ashes and I rode up to it, and saluting her she nothing else But this wife persisted in saluted me in return. her desire to wear the gowns, although her master said they were too gay. Then the husband destroyed the dresses. He was going to let her know that he would be master in his own house, you see. He was arrested for this destruction of property. Nothing could be done with him, although he had del stroyed all her pretty gowns, because, as he contended, they were his own property, and he had a right to do as he pleased with them. I wonder if that wife will ever say again that she has all the rights she wants?

The new suffrage law in South Australia enfranchises women in a territory & Son. covering nearly 1,000,000 square miles. By the time the Hottentot negro women of Africa get suffrage perhaps it will occur to the legislators of our own New England states that perhaps they might as well permit it too.

Marie Stockman, a German woman, has invented a series of frames which will enable any blind person to easily count any number of stitches while embroidering or knitting, and also to select the exact color needed at any time. This invention opens up a new world of employment to the blind. They will be able to embroider and knit anything; also to weave tapestries, rugs, portieres and many other things.

A woman writer says that fewer marriages and happier ones should be the order of the day.

Make a white mark for the Philadelphia Methodist conference. The admirable Christian gentlemen composing it voted at their last meeting hereafter to abolish sex discriminations in the admission of delegates to the conference.

The Illinois legislature has reated or discovered a new crime. It is that of wife desertion. Hereafter in that state if a man deserts his wife and family he can be imprisoned at hard labor in the penitentiary. The law was undoubtedly suacted to fit the case of conscienceless scamps who lightly marry, become the fathers of children and then as lightly cast them off and run away, leaving them to become public charges. Unless do in Illinois as they constantly do elsewhere-marry and cast off as many wives as they choose. It would be an honor and a credit to a wife to be deserted by a creature like that, and if she had no children she would be better off without him. She could hold up her head and go on and earn her own brave living, dependent on no human creature. But if she has little children who demand her care the case is different. She cannot go out and work. Therefore the
